The writer thinks some of the officers consider the destruction of this poor race the best thing that could happen. The promises held out to these poor people and the Constitution at a time when all the people hopes inspired, lead to this result-destitution, suffering, disease and death.

These results will not affect the conduct of the radicals. Consequences are nothing to them. they propose their amendments. It is all the worse for the facts if the theory is against them. What is if the same measure was adopted by a single all that, if it were true, to the suffering and State or by the Parliament of England, and dying? Men may make martyrs of themselves, when the question comes to be fairly treated but that one race should assume to make martyrs of another for a future good promised, is to assume the privilege of the Most

But all these predictions of Abolitionists about the future of freedmen are on a par with their other predictions. Three years ago they were profuse in pledges and resolutions as to how this war was to be conducted. They have violated the whole of them. At the same time they were much given to prophe sying and foretelling, and all their predictions have proved false. They have demonstrated their incapacity to maintain firmly any position or to comprehend the position of the into the Union to secure the adoption of these country. They have blundered along, still promising, not what they at first promised, in the presence of the still greater calamities but directly the opposite, and foretelling what will happen with as much confidence as if they had ever understood or foretold any-WE HAVE SECURED THE ENTIRE CONTROL OF thing that ever did happen. Well, why have they not done it? They have not zeal enough to fight themselves; that they have only enough to hire negroes to Well, why have they not done it? They easier. It is evidence to them that the white Their Sir Oracle in the House of Representatives now tells the country the war may last that the enlistment of negroes relieves an many years and the public debt cost $200 .-000,000 annually to meet the interest. Such are the exploits of this promising and non- that. They will have less to resist, and beperforming party-a party that has broken all sides, all they capture they can keep and use its pledges; that has foretold what didn't come to raise cotton. They have employed negrees to pass; that has indeed made progress-progress in folly; from bad to worse.

Now these incompetent nincompoops prom e great things for the negro. To be sure, the race is suffering and dying now; their condition under the process is deplorable and shocking; but they will do gloriously sometime hercafter, say these false prophets and incompetents who have deceived themselves and all who trusted them up to this hour.

Why don't they do better for the negro now? What are their promises for the future worth? What promise did thay ever make that they fulfilled? Is there a statesman in the world who does not stand aghast at one race of people undertaking to take care en masse of four millions of another race; finding them homes, finding them employment, providing for their multiplied wants? It seems to us that a man must be the world's fool or stark mad to propose it. Yet a whole party of white men, wearing beard and breeches, undertake it. The results are that the race, helpless, not at all self-supporting, are the victims of the barbarous experiment.

We don't know what is to become of the negro in this uproar of passions among white men; but this business of dragging the negro into this fight, whilst his race is perishing and dving of destitution, want and ill-treatment, is mean business, unworthy of the white man who pretends to belong to the superior race. We say pretends. Perhaps it is only a pretense. We used to think the white man the superior; but his deportment, of late, raises some doubts on that subject.

Among other measures pertinaciously arged by the radicals at present is the amendment of the Constitution. When we remember that in the earlier part of the present struggle, to avoid the war, and to restore the to Lord Palmerston that no act will force her Union, a convention to amend the Constitu- to declare war against her own children in tion, or amendments to the Constitution, were urged by the conservatives, how violently it was resisted by these very men who are now so urgently pressing it, we can but be struck reloice to see them tied-in a double knot. with the change. They then said that the Constitution was good enough as it was, and resented any alteration of it as departing from right to conciliate rebels.

It is now an acknowledged fact that, had the Crittenden compromise been presented to the people, or had a convention of the States been called, the war would have been avoided and the Union peacefully preserved. This fact is admitted now, even by the most ultra, and they rejoice that the measure was defeat-

The amendments, too, would have been accepted by the whole people of each and every State, acting freely. It would be useless to dwell on the calamities that would have been avoided by the adoption of the plan at that time, however much it is to be regretted. It If we inquire the reason for the sudden change now; if we seek to find out why these men who once thought the old Constitut good enough for them have changed, it is not a hard task. Then the people throughout the Union would have been able to speak their opinions freely. No file of bayonets; no proclamation allowing one-tenth of a State to decide; no oath of allegiance would have been required; but this very reason was, and still is, the very thing which would defeat the objects the radicals have in view. The vaice of the people would, if fairly tested even at this late day, defeat every scheme which there men hold dear. To attain them they are willing to disfranchise seven million peopleenough, and more than enough, to overthrow their schemes.

AN OUTRAGE.—Last Saturday night, at a late hour, as Dr. Millburn, of Colfax, returned from the country from visiting a patient, a lawless and unprovoked attack was made upon himself and family, by a party of returned soldiers, swearing they intended to kill him, and making demonstrations to that effect, besides Mrs. M. being grossly insulted. We understand the Doctor was compelled to quit his nouse unarmed, and three shots were fired at him while making his escape, none, however, taking effect.

We understand that one of the party was enwelled to the first of the force o here. If the issues are allowed to redeem here at a discount, and the Government may legally pay them out at par, there will be some contusion, and a possibility of dissatisfaction on the part of the public. If they are compelled to redeem at par they will find the task one of great difficulty, and in case of expansion, will all be breken in the first pressure. We throw out these hints as topics for thought and discussion. They are practical, and the questions cannot be evaded.—[New York Journal of Commerce.

Leased Plantations-An Interesting

[From the Chicago Tribune of March 21.] VICKSBURG, MISS., March 12, 1864. To the army the disposition of the negro is becoming a subject of gigantic proportions, and unless it is relieved by the philanthropic neople of the North, who have shown their loyalty and benevolence in the organization of sanitary commissions for the soldiers, it will be so overburdened as to necessarily impede the operations of the coming campaign. The constant ingress to our lines of refugees, both white and black, with every shade of color between the two, who have traveled long distances, exposed to inclemencies of the weather, and without food or clothing, presents a spectacle wretched to behold, far outvying in poverty, destination and suffering the worst class of paper emigration which lands upon our Atlantic shorer.

The banks of the Mississippi river are lined with negro huts and rude cabins, among whom there is a vast amount of destitution, starvations and increase. To the army the disposition of the negro is with negro buts and rude cabins, among whom there is a vast amount of destitution, starvation and sickness. The late expedition of Sherman, on their return to Vicksburg, brought in from ten to eleven thousand colored persons of all ages; very many died on the route. They were taken immediately on board transports, and sent to different places on the river, mostly. I am informed, by those who had them in charge on the expedition, they were destined for Jeff. Davis' plantation, where they were quartered and supplied as where they were quartered and supplied as well as may be by the Government. Yet they are dying from afteen to twenty a day, and need what it is almost impossible for Government to supply them with. The general tendency of a change in their habits to the army rations and exposure to scorbute diseases, make it important that some measures be immediated by taken to supply them, with vecetables. They feel much alarmed and rather despondent, yet are promised that orders will arrive at Vicksburg by Thursday of this week from Washington, giving them the invalid corps and the marine corps for this purpose. There are said to be five hundred persons in Vicksburg engaged in cotton buying, who have to get permis from each county they operate in, and the scouting from the gunboats is mostly in those places where cotton is expected to be those places where cotton is expected to be found, and where speculators abound. My own opinion, founded upon conversation with the old planters and residents of the South, is that the plantation business is harzardous at best and extremely unsafe without thorough protection of the stationed forces at all points where such operations are carried on; and they will not work their own without se-curity from the Government, and of protec-tion from all parties whatever.

It is suggested that Congress give them a public reception, and extend to them the hospitalities of the nation. Can't you send us a few delegates on from Louisville to participate in the festivities?

An Abolition paper of Washington, with regard to this matter, says, "it is to be hoped that this experience will teach us the folly of attempting to depopulate the country of its valuable labor;" and it might, with the same propriety, have hoped that this experience to make citizens out of slaves. They must now all be given $500 spiece and put into the remaining citizens themselves, before the make citizens out of slaves. They must now all be given $500 apiece and put into the army. Alas! the poor negro!

General Kilpatrick's raid was a failure, and it was a disaster in it that we lost the service of that young and brilliant young hero and soldier, Colonel Ulric Dahlgren. The death of this gallant man, and the circumstances attending his death, are something that the nation will probably not fully understand until some impartial historian, after the war is over, will give to posterity a truthful account. The Richmond papers say that papers were found upon his person, and orders writcommissions. Teachers who have been engaged in this work give very encouraging reports of the results of their labor, but suffer much embarrassment from the transition state food and clothing, until they can get in a con-dition to help themselves, and find employment or raise something to subsist upon. The Origin of the Disturbance at Charleston, Illinois. We have published under telegraphic head several notices of a difficulty occurring between citizens and soldiers at Charleston, Illinois, without any mention of the origin of the difficulty. The following special to the St. Louis Republican of the 30th throws some light upon the subject:

I would have sent you an account of the affair last night but the line was out of order between here and St. Louis. It is reported that John B. Eden, member of Congress from that district, made a speech at Charleston yesterday. Atter he had finished, Dr. York, Surgeon of the Fifty-fourth Illinois, took the stand. We recommend to the earnest considera We recommend to the earnest considera-tion of those who still suppose the South can be conquered, the eloquent and thrilling ad-dress of the General Assembly of Virginia, that grand and gallant old commonwealth, the mother of States and of statesmen, the birth-place of Washington, of Lee and of Jackson. The defiant tone in which it treats of the ef-forts to enslave the people of the South, and the eloquent language of denuncination in forts to enslave the people of the South, and the eloquent language of denuncination in which it refers to the barbarous system of warfare pursued by the minions of the Washington despot, will meet an echo in the heart of every man who loves justice and hates optression. We trust in God we shall never see the day on which the glorious old commonwealth will be subdued and given over to the spoiler and plunderer; to the Butlers and the Schencks; to the licensed burglar and the incendiary, incited and encouraged by "the best Government on the face of the earth."

This is another fact to urge upon the military authorities the importance of giving up the House of Refuge to the city authorities for the purpose for which it was originally intended. There are in our city thousands of boys who are on the broad road to ruin and destruction, a number of whom will probably spend their last days in prison, or who will end their lives on the gallows, who, if there was a house of correction, where they could learn some trade, might be brought up Monday, by order of the military authorities, to be ornaments to society. We hope that matters may be so arranged that the building can at once be given up to the city.

"All that's bright must fade."

Truly, this language is verified in her death. Who, to have seen her one year ago, radiant with heslth and happiness, could have believed, that now the still coid chamber of death would claim her too for an occupant. Strange and mysterious are the dispensations of an aliwise Providence.

But ten months have elapsed since we stood beside her as sheap ighted her marriage vows at the altar, in the Convent Cnapet of St. Rose. One week ago we looked for the last time upon her dear form, as it was lain gently and reverently away, in the Cemetery, adjaining the Convent. On the hallside we left her, with many tens, to "sleep the sleep that knows no waking," till the resurrection morn. to "sleep that knows no waking," till the rest of the sleep that knows no waking," till the rest of the sleep that knows no waking," till the rest of the sleep that a few months of wedded happiness were grant her, when consumption, that fatal disease, sleed up her. She suffersed long and much; but seldom have a had a brighter example of patience and Christian r. sination set before us. She was a consistent member the Catholic Church. Two days before her death is was assisted by the Rev. Father Turner, receiving at a same time, the holy Viaticum in a very edifying maner. At the close of the day her life went out. Without a strug-le she yielded up her soul to Him who gave it. It was not until within a few weeks of her death it she seemed impressed with a sense of her danger. Whe told by her friends that she must soon die, with a look sweet humility she said, "Try will be done." To one; good and pure death is shorn of half its terrora. Frien slip, love and infant weakness, all stretched forth the arms to save her, but in vain; her work was done, hission ended. By her death a husband is bereft of a devoted at mission ended.

By her death a husband is bereft of a devoted and trusting wife, a mother of a dutiful and affectionate daughter, a tender babe of a mether s watchful care. She was kind, gentle and amiable in all relations. Truly may be said. None knew her but to love, None named her but to praise

WASHINGTON, March 31.
The Secretary of the Navy, in reply to a resolution of liquiry from the Senate, says no transfer of men from the army to the navy has taken place under the recent act of Congress, and that thirty-five vessels are now awaiting complement of men. Not only are awaiting complements of men. Not only are they waiting for crews, but the terms of many seamen have expired, and men are detained to manage our ships who are justly entitled to dis-charges. Were they not detained many ves-sels on bleckade duty would have to go out of service. This state of things is to be deplored, and it is in a great measure, if not entirely, attributable the unfortunate legislation. Joshua R. Giddings, American Consul General in Canada, was on the floor of the House this morning. KNOXVILLE, March 31. The rebels have fallen back beyond Green-rille. They destroyed the tresile at Bull's Jap, the wagon and railroad bridge across Lick creek, took up and carried off a portion of the rails and the telegraph wire. Desert-ers continue to come in and report large num-bers trying to make their way to the Union lines. This much may be relied on.

morning. DEPOT ARMY CLOTHING AND EQUIPAGE, LOUISVILLE, KY., March 31, 1864.

Messrs. Editors: In your paper of yesterday found the following articles: Soldiers' Widows.—A lady of this city writes us complaining that the Commissary Department is now giving out sewing to people who are in good circumstances, and who have bought sewing machines of parties connected with the Commissary Department, to the neglect of soldiers' wives and widows however worthy. Can this beso? The lady's letter is at the disposal of any official who chooses to investigate the subject.

It is said that ladies in carriages can get work on soldiers' clothing in this city, while the poor wives and widows of soldiers are generally refused such work. As the government department under my charge is the only one in which army clothing is manufactured, I suppose the writer of the W. C. Grubb officiates in the office. The Shamletter to which you allude must have had ref-rock is loading for Nashville.

The procuring of this kind of government work for Louisville was the result of personal effort upon my part, based upon representations which I made, through Colonel Thomas Swords, A. Q. M. General, and Captain W. Jenkins, A. Q. M., with their favorable indorsement, to the Department at Washington, of the necessities of the poor women of Louisville and vicinity, many of whom were soldiers' wives and widows. Upon the reception of orders to manufacture at this point. I gave of orders to manufacture at this point, I gave directions that the wives and widows of soldiers, and the most needy of the city, should be first supplied with work. Those who have been in immediate charge of the work—the superintendent and chief clerk—have had as strong sympathy for these classes as any of the most benevolent of our citizens; and so the most benevolent of our citizens; and so far as I can learn, not a single soldier's wife or widow (who has been able to make the clothing) has been turned away without work. Neither does the writer of the letter make this charge. She charges, however, that the work has been unequally divided to the detriment of soldiers' wives and widows. In other words, that these women have not been kept constantly supplied with work. The amount of work to be done at this depot has not been equal to the supply of labor offered, and hence it has frequently occurred that there has been no work to give out, when parties have called of Williams, Lieut. Throof and Buell, criminal attorneys, also arrested and confined at Columbus, charged with being connected with Williams in the offense which caused his arrest.

A dispatch published in newspapers the 29th purporting to have been received at a charge convert. 29th, purporting to have been received at Washington from Capt. Pennock, naval commander here concerning the rebel capture of Paducah and demanding its surrender bogus.

In March there have been 420 names on the roll, to whom $4,348 20 has been paid. Five only received from $24 to $30, and seven over $30. The general average has been $10 35.

When it is remembered that the names enrolled each morth represent from one thousand to one thousand five hundred seeing women—one person in a family or a neighborhood often taking out work in her name for two or three, and sumetimes more, and receiving pay for ed, and it is in a great measure, if not entirely, attributable to unfortunate legislation. The enrollment act of the last Congress so utterly ignored the naval service that enlistments in that service were permitted to be credited on the quotas of those communities from which they were drawn, when the draft came to be enforced. In addition to these obstacles, the appropriations for extraordinary bounties for army enlistments, while not a dollar was paid to the sailors, operated to the discredit of the naval service and held out strong inducements for military service.

Thus much, Messrs. Editors, I have felt called upon to say in reply to the two editorial articles in your paper. I am not willing that the government or the government officials shall rest under the imputation of neglecting the soldiers' wives and widows in the distribution of its work. Those who now have charge of this whole matter sought the opportunity of manufacturing at this place, and assumed the responsibility and trouble attending it (without one dollar additional pay or compensation), for the purpose of giving employment to this very class of persons, and it is hardly reasonable to suppose that they will now be overlooked. Should, however, any cases of that kind be known to you or others, if they will be reported to me, they shall receive their share of government works so long as there is any to be g

[From the Chicago Evening Journal.] CAIRO, March 26.

CAIRO, March 26.

An expedition under Gen. Mason Brayman, commandant of this military district, left here on Thursday morning, and landed at Columbus, Ky. The object of the expedition was to repel a threatened attack upon Union City, by the rebel Forrest, who has been moving up through West Tennessee.

Our forces consisted of the Thirty-fifth Wisconsin, Twenty-fifth New Jersey, Thirty-second Wisconsin and the Seventeenth New York regiments, about 2,000 strong.

second Wisconsin and the Seventeenth New York regiments, about 2,000 strong.

Arriving at Columbus, General Brayman also took with him Sparristrom's battery and a company of mounted scouts. The expedition left Columbus immediately, pushing forward by rail. Understanding previous to starting that a bridge a short distance from Union City had been burned and the telegraph cut, Captain Odlin, A. A. G., and Gen. Brayman's chief of staff, who had been sent from here the evening previous for the purgraph cut, Captain Odlin, A. A. G., and Gen. Brayman's chief of staff, who had been sent from here the everening previous for the purpose of ascertaining the true condition of affairs, the strength and designs of the enemy, had returned to Columbus from Union City before the expedition got started from there, passing over the burning bridge just in time to save a train which he had orders not to endanger. He and Colonel Lawrence, commanding the post at Columbus, advised General Brayman that they were of opinion that Col. Hawkins, commanding Union City, would be able to hold out against the enemy until reenforcements could reach him, notwithstanding the attacking force was reported as much superior to our forces. The Seventh Tennessee cavalry, some five hundred men, three hundred being mounted, were surrounded with earthworks of some pretensions.

Our expedition pushed forward, and, on arriving within six miles of Union City, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, General Brayman learned Colonel Hawkins had surrendered at 11 o'clock in the morning, that the fortifications and a considerable amount of property had been destroyed, and that the horses on which our forces were mounted, the arms and equipments, a few mules and wagons, and the prisoners, had been removed, the enemy taking a northeast direction. Little or no fighting had been done. Although the enemy had made three charges, meeting with repulse each time, but one man in the garrison was killed. The assailing force was not more than killed. The assailing force was not more than one thousand, and were without artillery. They were at that reported to have artillery and a force of some seven thousand.

Gen. Brayman having only infantry, which belonged to Gen. Veach's command taken from here, where they had been awaiting orders to move on another expedition, and having orders from Gen. Sterman not to detain them from the service in ended for them, returned to Columbus, re-embarked on transports, and returned to Cairo yesterday.

A flag of truce was sent by Forrest, saying that unless the garrison surendered according to his conditions, he would epen artillery on the garrison. It is said Colenel Hawkins' men wanted him to cut his way on, but he refused to do so. Other statements are to the effect that some of his men threatened to shoot him if he surrendered. It is also id that when the surrender had been made, so eral of our men wept like children, and a mober broke their guns, and others threw theirs into a well, and that the officers broke heir swords.

Our forces had just been paid one year's service. The loss to men and officers is estimated at nearly sixty thousand dollars.

Something less than four hundred prisoners were taken, several escaping. Forty-one are here now, and others reported in the woods.

Not only are your Pills admirably adapted to their purpose as an aperient, but I find their beneficial effects upon the Liver very marked indeed. They have in my practice proved more effectual for the cure of bilious complaints than any one remedy I can mention. Washington, D. C., the February, 1880. 9
Sire: I have used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Your Pills have had a long trial in my practice, and I hold them in esteem as one of the best aperients I have ever found. If others of our fraternity have found them as efficacious as I have, they should join me in proclaiwing it for the benefit of the multitudes who suffer from that complaint, which, although bad enough in itself, is the progenitor of others that are worse. KID GLOVES! FEATHERS!

Jefferson st., 2d door below Seventh, north side, LOUISVILLE, KY. LOUISVILLE, KY.

SUCH AN ESTABLISHMENT AS THE ABOVE HAS been much wanted by the ladies of this city and vicinity. Mrs. McK., from many years' practical experience in the largest French Cleaning Establishment in London, besides doing business with the best ladies of New York. has acquired a thorough knowledge of every branch of the business. Having recently returned from a trip to the eastern cities, she can reassure her friends that she has secured the services of the most experienced artists. Her celebrared kid glove cleaning process is known only to herself. The process is executed without odor, preserves the gloss, color, and texture of the kid, rendering it soft, pliable, and well finished as when new. The economy of this glove de-partment, together with the point decise of her Silk, Shawl, Manile, Feather, and other branches of her well arranged establishment, recommend themselves at once to toe liberal patronage of all persons who desire to save me ner. mrig dim
